CLIENT
Ventia New Zealand

As the current contractor to Transpower New Zealand, Ventia required an office and amenities complex to accommodate staff as they had to vacate their existing office space. With an established reputation for providing quality temporary build solutions across New Zealand, the Portacom team was approached. Portacom created a design that involved installing custom hire offices, lunchroom and ablution facilities, enabling Ventia staff to operate more effectively and efficiently thanks to their new site facilities.

“As in the case with most of our projects, we prepared the site by installing piles to ensure the site was ready to go for when the modular buildings arrived on site. Abiding by all environmental and health and safety regulations was a priority so we worked closely with Ventia to ensure our installation went smoothly.” Said Sales Manager Clinton Meyer.
