Te Puna School embarked on a transformative journey with Portacom, pioneering the weathertight funding initiative for modular projects. This collaboration marked the inception of a new era for the school's infrastructure.

The site posed unique challenges, demanding a strategic approach to fit modular buildings into the confined space left after the demolition of 3 existing structures.

Portacom's modular expertise came to the forefront as we seamlessly integrated a single and double teaching space around an existing sand pit. Despite the constraints, the project was delivered ahead of schedule. The swift execution ensured that the children commenced the school year in their brand new classrooms.

This collaboration not only transformed physical spaces but also set a benchmark for future modular initiatives. Te Puna's School's success story stands as a testament to Portacom's commitment to innovation, efficiency and exceeding client expectations.
